Bomber Boys by Mel Rolfe

Mel Rolfe

Lancaster pilot Victor Wood's plane arrived too early over Gelsenkirchen while the objective used to be shrouded in darkness and the most strength miles behind. His bomber used to be unexpectedly struck with terrifying strength via flak and grew to become upside down. An engine used to be on fire, the subconscious mid-upper gunner, slumped over his turret, was once being sprayed with petrol and their bombload have been struck via shrapnel. May Vic get his staff again to base safely? Mel Rolfe tells this and nineteen different expertly researched tales of the younger males who went on sorties evening after night, no longer figuring out in the event that they may see one other dawn.

genuine words, from actual males of genuine courage.
