Casanova L'Admirable by Philippe Sollers

Philippe Sollers

«On croit savoir qui est Casanova. On se trompe. On n'a pas voulu que Casanova soit un écrivain (et disons-le calmement : un des plus grands écrivains du dix-huitième siècle). On en a fait une bête de spectacle. On s'acharne à en fournir une fausse image. Les metteurs en scène qui se sont projetés sur lui l'ont présenté comme un pantin, une mécanique amoureuse, une marionnette plus ou moins sénile ou ridicule. Il hante les Casanova L'Admirable imaginations, mais il les inquiète. On veut bien raconter ses «exploits galants», mais à de priver leur héros de sa profondeur. Bref, on est jaloux de lui, on le traite avec un ressentiment diffus, pincé, paternaliste. Il s'agirait plutôt de le concevoir enfin tel qu'il est : simple, direct, courageux, cultivé, séduisant, drôle. Un philosophe en action.» Philippe Sollers.

Só é pena não dar para colocar zero na classificação. Nunca em toda a minha vida li um livro tão mau e, principalmente, nunca vi uma tradução tão mal feita. Chegam mesmo ao ridículo de colocar "Capa: three designers gráficos", num overall desrespeito a quem a criou. O autor imagine à partida que conhecemos tudo o que é dito sobre Casanova e parte daí. Pessoas que, como eu, já leram os romances sobre Casanova há vários anos ficam simplesmente perdidas. A narrativa é quase aleatória, como se fosse um rascunho daquilo que ele queria referir no livro, sem qualquer tipo de menção introdutória. Não se consegue perceber em que se baseou para escrever esta suposta biografia corrigida de Casanova, pois nunca apresenta referências ao longo do texto. Confesso que não o li todo, há um limite de má escrita que tolero e este livro ultrapassou-o largamente.
