This e-book is a set of actual tales approximately Peterson's, his crew's, and others' reviews in the course of global warfare II. Peterson flew thirty-two missions in B-17s over Germany with the 379th Bomb Group, eighth Air Force. The tales take the reader via flight education and on into combat, ranging in concentration from frustrations with carrier existence to issues with "the Fly a Big Tin Bird brass," all informed in "barracks" language with many funny incidents included. Prologue Like fishermen, pilots wish to inform stories, and prefer fish tales they generally increase with the telling. However, within the days within which those money owed took place, if a storyteller bought over excited and the credibility of his story Fly a Big Tin Bird grew to become questionable, his viewers had a good way of placing him down. In unison they'd interrupt "And there i used to be at thirty thousand toes flying flat Fly a Big Tin Bird on my again and striking by way of my jock strap." This then, is my war. The tales that i've got attempted to place down the following for posterity, assuming posterity is interested, are incidents thathappened to me for my part or to associates and associates within the previous military Air Corps in the course of Fly a Big Tin Bird global struggle II.
