Good Enough to Eat by Lesléa Newman

Lesléa Newman

Liza Goldberg is twenty-five, Jewish, heterosexual -- and unhappy. She can be a bulimic stuck in a self-destructive cycle of alternately bingeing and ravenous herself. This novel tells of her researching her lesbian identity, and of the folks in her life, her first woman lover, Anemone; Harvey, her homosexual roommate; and the nursery college youngsters from whom Liza sneaks peanut butter snacks.

i like Leslea Newman's paintings and that i suggestion i want this one, yet no longer so much. you could relatively inform that it was once one among her past works and it truly is simply very primitive.
