
Homeworking Women: Gender, Racism and Class at Work

Annie Phizacklea

An up to date review of all kinds of home-based paintings is supplied during this volume, which makes a tremendous contribution to sociological and coverage debates on homeworking. The authors argue that homeworking replicates wider divisions within the labour strength and that its power for bettering women's employment possibilities is as a result limited. Utilizing unique research, they define the benefits and disadvantages, the pay and conditions, and the relative events for modern girls homeworkers. Gender, class, racism and ethnicity are proven to be key elements in developing the homeworking labour force. The authors recognize the shared place that homeworkers occupy as women, in addition to the diversities skilled b
