Hooked by Frank De Filippo

Frank De Filippo

"Hooked" is a lusty roman a clef that juxtaposes evils--Baltimore's randy Block and Maryland's comic-opera politics. alongside the gutterscape there are bribes, payoffs, murders, small-time hoods and big-time operators, a hooker who saved a diary, a police narcotics captain who provided the stripper with heroin, a snitch who died with a really inner most half amputated and sewn into his mouth, a playing overlord who disappeared mysteriously, a governor who had a yearning for dice, a manic urban editor and different diversified bimbos, misfits, trenchermen, women of the evening and unintended travelers and the ever-present Richard Dart, ace hunting-dog reporter and all-around wiseacre. upload to the combo the mob's try Hooked and takeover the Block that became a gangland misfire. No question. The superstar of "Hooked" is the colourful Block, the place Gypsy Rose Lee, Lily St. Cyr, Ann Corio and Sally Rand cavorted of their flowing silks and boas and Phil Silvers and Bob desire displayed their vaudevillian antics. The Block is a Baltimore institution, the city's erogenous zone. Ask any army guy who is ever had a 72-hour go in Baltimore. "Hooked" is a romp. it truly is fun. it is raunchy, now not intentionally so, yet simply Hooked sassy sufficient to maintain the gritty metaphor flowing.
