i need to confess that i've got continually had a mystery wish to stopover at Istanbul and journey all the extraordinary points of interest of that old city: the Sancta Sophia, the Blue Mosque, the Obelisk of Tuthmoses, Topkapi Palace, the Grand Bazaar. Thubron does a very good activity of summarizing the historical past of Istanbul and combining in his personal stories dwelling in that crossroads of Europe and Asia. His Istanbul (The Great Cities) observations of Turkish tradition and society have been insightful, particularly while he in comparison that tradition to different Levantine peoples corresponding to the Greeks and Arabs. I'm additionally fascinated about where the Ottoman Empire and the Turks held within the collective mind's eye of Western Europe; it sort of feels to be a wealthy mix of awe, fear, and envy. Someday, if the systemic problems with the center East ever get labored out, I'd like to walk the streets of outdated Stamboul with my spouse and discover a urban a few 2,000 years old.
