Poems approximately nature, animals, and daily occasions fill the fantastically illustrated pages of this book. Those narratives in miniature, by way of such skills as Omar Rayyan and Sylvia Long, chronicle every little thing from the quest for the fabled "peanut butter fish" ("Ocean Sandwich") to a bit girl's options for fixing the predicament of the "Bug within the Tub." Younger readers keep on with the enthralling adventures of earthworms and ladybugs, whereas in "Mushrooms from Heaven," a "parade of ants" marches alongside a backyard path, shaded via mushrooms like "parasols from heaven." Funny poems, akin to the full of life dance of the "Limbo Lizards," are interspersed with considerate items similar to "Stay, Little Stray." The range of subject matters within the booklet exhibits teenagers how poetry can seize the richness of human experience.
