Later by Robert Creeley

Robert Creeley

The epigraph to Later, Robert Creeley's moment booklet of poems released via New Directions, enjoins the reader to "hold in mind/ All that has enjoyed you or been kind." This dedication to the continuity of lifestyles on a delicate planet, constrained through either time and space, has turned into more and more vital to a poet who, "if older," takes a definite satisfaction in figuring out the bounds of the possible. The place his 1978 verse magazine he chronicled an exact trip (to New Zealand, Australia, and the some distance East), Later offers with an inside exploration rooted in daily points of interest and sounds—the play of sunshine and shadow via a window, the lap of waves on a beach. Previous occurrences and expectancies are reconciled with an attractiveness of inevitable change, and within the poignant identify series Creeley marvels, "but now the sweetness of existence is/ that it truly is at all."

This assortment includes a few of Robert Creeley's longest poems. Not less than the longest that I have read. Ahead of interpreting LATER, I used to be familiar with the Creeley of PIECES, the Creeley of brief and fragmented poems. Yet from the outset, this assortment proved to be a departure. For example, some of the poems during this assortment reveal a preoccupation with usual imagery, which I do not take into account from his prior collections... So sing this weather, passing, grey and blue together, rain and sun. - For Pen (1) Sunlight in courtyard beyond settles on stump - Nature What's within the world is water, earth, and fire, ... - Childish I'm a tender previous guy right here on earth, sticks, dust, trees, people. - I like You In spite of which, there are glimpses of early Creeley. His minimalism. His profundity. His play with language. His remark at the poetic form.... Think out of it - be here. - P Sitting and thinking. Dreaming back - Ciano's I And I was not asleep and I was not alone. - Poor There are 3 poems entitled "For Pen"... I am looking to be useful to someone, I think, always - if no longer many, then one. - For Pen Later (1) Thinking out of the center - it's up, it's down... It's that time of day light echoes the sunset over mountains. I am looking to come home. - For Pen (2) Last day of year, sky's a light open grey, blue spaces appear in lateral tiers. - For Pen Later (3) And poems entitled "Later"... Money I do not want. No position more than one other - I am not here... - Later (1) Shan't be winding back in blue gone timing ridiculous, nor lonely anymore.... - Later (2) There looks a dialogue, Creeley with himself, concerning the present of his kind because it departs Later from his early variety and returns. The present is acknowledged... I'll now not write again things a tender man thinks, no longer the words of that feeling. - After me again. Note earth, sky, water - no mind, no time. No island within the sun. - Later (1) I'm a tender outdated guy the following on earth, sticks, dust, trees, people. - I admire You Creeley's kind has regularly been informal, yet right here it takes on a planned informality. Is the poet struggling with his outdated age ("Heat's thick/sun's bright//in window still/early morning, //May, fifty-first birthday" - Loner) in an try to look endlessly youthful, or Later is that this one other viewpoint at the similar Later dialogue, commenting at the currents of the poet's style... Later. This is simply to say I was something or other, and also you dig it, that's it, brother. - Peace I'll take the world, and positioned it on its side, man, and squeeze simply within the right places. Wow.... - Two Look at that motherfucking smokestack - Blue Skies Motel When I used to be a kid, I thought like a child - I was once a kid, you dig it.... - Later (2) Am I useful today? Will I fuck up the fireplace? - Corn Close This wisdom and attainable self-consciousness relating to previous age could have been as a result of the dying of the poet's mother, whom the poet recognizes in a tribute... taking a look back now, wish I'd talked more to her. I tried in the hospital but our habit was too deep - we didn't speak easily. Sitting now, here early morning, by myself, can pay attention her - - 4 Years Later This discussion turns out to arrive it end Later within the moment poem entitled "Later". In it the end result of his questions on his age, his style, approximately time, approximately poetry, come together, escaping the interior discussion (Creeley with himself), and addressing the exterior reader... In testament to a willingness to live, I, Robert Creeley, being of sound body and mind, admit to different preoccupations - with the future, with the past. yet now - yet now the sweetness of lifestyles Later is that it's at all, this sticky sentimental warm enclosure, feels position within the physical with others, lets brain wander to thinking about thought, then shall we pass of itself, finds a home on earth. - Later (2)
