« Mesdames et messieurs, au nom du commandant Masterton et de son équipage, nous vous souhaitons l. a. bienvenue à bord de ce vol spécial terreur, qui va vous emmener tout autour du monde, avec arrêts à New York, Bruges, Londres... Au cours de nos diverses escales vous pourrez descendre à terre goûter les horreurs locales les plus typiques, et apprécier ce qui fait le charme redoutable des capitales du cauchemar. Outre les indispensables fantômes britanniques, démons vaudou et autres fils du Diable, vous pourrez admirer toutes sortes de prouesses chirurgicales et vous procurer dans nos boutiques hors taxes de curieux scarabées aphrodisiaques qui feront les anges de vos nuits futures. N'oubliez pas d'attacher votre ceinture, nous allons bientôt décoller. » Auteur de « Manitou », « Le portrait du mal » et — récemment — de l. a. série des Jim Rook (« Magie vaudou », « Magie maya », « Magie indienne »), Graham Masterton est le plus maginatif des auteurs anglais de terreur. Il est surtout celui qui arrive le mieux à concilier humour et macabre, pour le plus grand plaisir de ses lecteurs.

Recueil de nouvelles d'un maître de l'horreur, qui comporte beaucoup de nouvelles très courtes. Peu de nouvelles m'ont véritablement fait frissonner, mais certaines me restent à l'esprit, telles que Le Scarabée Jajouka, Absence de bête ou encore l. a. ressource de tous les maux. Toutes ces histoires feraient de bons petits movies d'horreur, en tout cas, et cela donne une bonne idée de remark tourner des histoires courtes. Une lecture sympa, à prolonger avec d'autres recueils dans ce kind (de King notamment)
