Auguste Groner

Frau. Auguste Groner (1850-1929) co-authored Grace Isobel Colborn (1869-1948) in writing a chain of detective stories. The most personality within the sequence was once detective Joe Miller. Additionally they collaborated in writing the girl in Blue in 1922. Different works via Groner are: the fellow with the Black twine (1911) and Mene Tekel (1912). They have been consequently translated from German into English via Colborn. "Joseph Muller, mystery provider detective of the Imperial Austrian police, is without doubt one of the nice specialists in his profession. In character he differs vastly from different recognized detectives. He has neither the remarkable authority of Sherlock Holmes, nor the willing brilliancy of Monsieur Lecoq. Muller is a small, slight, plainlooking man, of indefinite age, and of a lot humbleness of mien. "

Just like the different mysteries that includes The Case of the Pocket Diary Found in the Snow (Dodo Press) detective Joseph Muller that I have learn ("The Case of the Golden Bullet" and "The Case of the The Case of the Pocket Diary Found in the Snow (Dodo Press) Lamp That Went Out"), "The Case of the Pocket Diary present in the Snow" is a brief and relaxing read, rather for lovers of crime novels just like Arthur Conan Doyle's Sherlock Holmes stories. "Pocket Diary"'s plot is compelling and, as was once the case within the different books, Muller's warm-heartedness unites him except detectives present in different crime novels written on the time -- and people written today.
