The Man Who Counts (Future history of the The Man Who Counts (Future history of the Polesotechnic League) Polesotechnic League)

Poul Anderson

Nicholas Van RijnInterstellar service provider Prince one moment, barbarian chattel the next. Marooned part a global and an ocean clear of the only real human outpost on a planet whose very water is toxic to humans; captured through winged barbarians in the middle of a brutal battle of extermination, someway "Old Nick" needs to scheme, conspire, wrangle and conflict his strategy to survival. How, by using his companions, he does so within the tale of--THE guy WHO COUNTS

This e-book is the similar of "comfort food" for old style sci fi readers like myself. they do not write them like this anymore. At one hundred sixty pages it is a speedy learn and from time to time it was once most unlikely to place the ebook down. Poul Anderson was once a "hard" technology Fiction writer. The story's major protagonist is one in all Anderson's heroes that he loved to come to sometimes named Nicholas Van Rijn. he's like an previous Renaissance Dutch tycoon, heart elderly and rotund, transplanted to the future. A service provider prince of the Polesotechnic League of Poul Anderson's future. He and partners locate themselves stranded on Diomedes, a planet of winged creatures in the middle of a war. it truly is two times the scale of earth yet is a low density planet with out metals. this is often a part of the reason for the local creatures having wings and with the ability to fly. On one part of this conflict is a tribe referred to as Drak'ho who live to tell the tale the substantial ocean on huge crusing rafts. they've got migrated to the house of the Lannachska, a way smaller tribe that migrates to and from their ancestral lands to delivery their childrens each one year. Upon their go back they've got found the Drak'ho of their domestic simply because they've been following one of those fish that has been their foodstuff source. Nicholas Van Rijn and his companions' personal meals resource is ready to dry up in The Man Who Counts (Future history of the Polesotechnic League) a couple of weeks as they could merely be sustained all alone human food. every little thing on Diomedes is toxic to them. Van Rijn devises the way to support the underdog Lannachska with a view to lead to peace and store his personal dermis within the process. I hugely suggest this book. Van Rijn could be a hoot every now and then even though I want Mr Anderson's personality Dominic Flandry, I nonetheless take pleasure in examining any adventures starring the smart and now and then whimsical Van Rijn.
