This e-book demonstrates that fundamental History, the historic paintings inside the first 9 books of the Hebrew Bible (Genesis-2 Kings), was once written as one unitary work, in planned emulation of the Greek-language Histories of Herodotus of Halicarnassus (completed c. 440 BCE); the variety of its books and sections is basically a literary device. The paintings used to be probably written within the interval 440-420 BCE, within the interval of reform frequently linked to the identify of Nehemiah. although this thesis doesn't without delay have an effect on questions of historicity, realizing the literary nature of fundamental background provides to open new vistas for study into the heritage of Israel, the Hebrew Bible in most cases and the heritage of the Hebrew language.
