while younger Tracey Pedley vanished within the woods round Burrthorpe, the close-knit group had their very own principles approximately what had happened. yet Deputy leader Constable Watmough has it down because the paintings of a child-killer who has considering that dedicated suicide -- although others puzzled concerning the man's deadly plunge right into a disused mine shaft. Returning to a city he left in anger, Colin Farr's homecoming is prepared for trouble, and while a school direction brings him into touch with Ellie Pascoe, difficulty starts. . . . Meanwhile, a homicide in Burrthorpe Mine forces Andy Dalziel to do so that brings him up opposed to a adverse and apprehensive community...

En plus des bonnes intrigues et de l'écriture excellente de l. a. série, j'aime les personnages. Dalziel est assez unique dans le genre. Il n'est pas du style à traîner son mal-être et ses questionnements sur l. a. vie, l'univers et le reste comme les anges plupart des héros policiers. Il n'est pas du style à se demander pourquoi sa femme est partie (il aurait d'ailleurs été plus surprenant qu'une femme puisse rester avec lui). Il est odieux, il passe son temps à gratter certaines events de son anatomie en public, il engueule tout le monde en jurant comme un charretier, bref c'est un gros con vulgaire et il fonce dans le tas mais c'est un bon vivant. Et on finit par s'attacher à lui parce que c'est un style réglo et dependable qui a parfois des élans de sensibilité inattendus. En fait, il se fait un malin plaisir à ne jamais agir comme les gens s'y attendent. Son subordonné Pascoe est un nouveau variety de policier. Il a fait des études, il est moins corporatiste que les anges plupart des policiers, il fait confiance aux méthodes Under World (Dalziel & Pascoe #10) modernes. Bref, c'est un objet de moquerie consistant pour son supérieur. les anges série a d'autres personnages récurrents, le sergent Wield, policier imperturbable et Ellie Pascoe, gauchiste, féministe, toujours prête à Under World (Dalziel & Pascoe #10) fustiger les brutalités policières mais aussi femme de Peter. Les joutes verbales entre elle et Dalziel sont toujours savoureuses même si, elle le reconnaît elle-même, gagner contre lui, c'est comme vouloir « tuer un grizzli en le chatouillant ». l. a. série met aussi en scène le Yorkshire, région industrielle et ses communautés. Le superior de los anges série, « Une femme trop sociable » (publié au Masque) se passait dans un membership de rugby, le deuxième, « Leçons de meurtre », dans une université. J'ai lu tous ceux qui ont été traduits en poche et je me suis arrêtée faute de combattants. Je reprends ma lecture après quelques années avec l. a. suite en anglais, « lower than international », le dixième de l. a. série, qui se passe dans un village de mineurs dans les années 80. Il est un peu lengthy à démarrer. On y découvre une histoire complexe où sont mêlés disparition d'enfant, conflits sociaux, objectives politiques et journalistiques. Le début se concentre surtout sur Colin Farr, un mineur qui go well with des cours universitaires avec Ellie Pascoe et l'enquête d'un journaliste sur une ancienne affaire à laquelle était mêlé le père de Colin. En plus, Under World (Dalziel & Pascoe #10) les tensions sociales sont beaucoup mises en avant. Un policier résume les kin entre los anges police et los anges habitants locale : « -You're not likely anticipating trouble, are you ? stated Pascoe. the guy shrugged. - You weren't right here through the Strike, sir. Ever see that film, Zulu ? Well, that's what it have Under World (Dalziel & Pascoe #10) been like in right here that evening we had the bother. other than that during the movie the redcoats stood their ground. We had extra sense. We ran ! on account that that night, I've been prepared for anything. A mob's like a dog. as soon as it's bitten, it may continually do it again. » C'est, malgré ce démarrage un peu long, un bon cru qui se dévore (même si j'ai dû m'habituer au parler populaire du Yorkshire et des mineurs en anglais), l'intrigue se tient parfaitement et Dalziel est égal à lui-même.
